Purpose

This privacy notice is for Women's Aid Federation of England

It tells you what we do with your personal data, the lawful bases we use for our processing, how long we keep it, and your rights as an individual.

Wherever possible Women's Aid Federation of England will only collect, process and store information about you that you have willingly provided. We aim to be open about collecting information and clear about what we will use it for.

About Us

Women's Aid is a grassroots federation working together to provide life-saving services in England and build a future where domestic abuse is not tolerated.

Why we collect information about you and how we ensure that what we do with it is lawful

If anyone can be identified by any information that we collect, this information is called 'personal data'. Data protection law says that Women's Aid must have a reason or 'purpose' for collecting and using personal data.

We cannot use your personal data for any reason unless we have a lawful basis to do so.

This information is detailed in the table below.

Special Category Personal Data

This includes information about race, ethnic origin, religion, health, sex life and sexual orientation.

These types of personal data merit specific protection. This is because use of this data could create significant risks to the individual's fundamental rights and freedoms.

The presumption is that this type of data needs to be treated with greater care because collecting and using it is more likely to interfere with these fundamental rights or open someone up to discrimination.

Where we process Special Category Data we do so because:

Privacy Notice

The data subject has given explicit consent to the processing of the personal data for one or more specified purposes. We would inform you of our legitimate interests concerning this data when we collect it.

If you give consent, you have the right to withdraw this at any time by contacting us in writing using the address or contact details given in this privacy notice.

If you disagree with us using your personal data for one or more of our legitimate interests let us know in writing and we will stop using it for that purpose.

Safety of personal data

In order to prevent unauthorised access or disclosure we have effective physical, electronic and managerial procedures to safeguard and secure the information we hold about you.

We keep information about you safe and secure by using electronic databases which are password protected systems, accessed only by staff who have been sufficiently trained data protection and who are bound by our organisational policies (i.e. Data Protection Policy, IT Policy) and procedures. Any paper copies are kept securely in locked drawers/cupboards.

If you have provided information on paper, it may be transferred to an electronic database.

All information you provide to us is stored on secure servers and any cloud-based systems are located within the European Economic Area (EEA).

Transferring personal data outside the European Economic Area

If we do transfer information outside the EEA, we will make sure that it is protected in the same way as if it was being used in the EEA. To do this we will use one or more of these safeguards:

- Only transfer it to a non-EEA country with privacy laws that give the same protection as the EEA as specified by the European Commission and which has been determined as adequate by the EEA;
- Ensure that a contract with the recipient (data processor) is in place that means that they must protect it to the same standards as the EEA.

You can find out more about these safeguards on the European Commission Justice and ICO websites.

How long do we keep your information?

We keep contact details for supporters with whom we have/have had a working relationship and for organisations or individuals who contact us, for six years after the last contact.

For more details see our Retention Schedule.

Sharing Your Personal Information

We will not sell, distribute, share or lease your personal data with/to third parties unless we are required to do so by law, have a safeguarding concern or we are using other companies' services. Women's Aid Federation of England does not share your personal information with any third parties, other than those listed below.

Any company whose services we use in this way is required to treat your data as carefully as we do and use it only in the course of the work they are doing for us.

Third parties who may provide an element of a service for us are classed as data processors. They will not share your data with any organisation other than us. They will hold it securely and retain it for the period we instruct them to. (See retention schedule)

Your Rights

Under data protection law, you have rights we need to make you aware of. The rights available to you depend on our reason for processing your information.

Your right of access

You have the right to ask us for copies of your personal information. This right always applies. There are some exemptions, which means you may not always receive all the information we process.

Your right to rectification

You have the right to ask us to rectify information you think is inaccurate. You also have the right to ask us to complete information you think is incomplete. This right always applies.

Your right to erasure

You have the right to ask us to erase your personal information in certain circumstances.

Your right to restriction of processing

You have the right to ask us to restrict the processing of your information in certain circumstances.

Your right to object to processing

You have the right to object to processing if we are able to process your information because it is in our legitimate interests, for statistical purposes or direct marketing purposes.

Your right to data portability

This only applies to information you have given us. You have the right to ask that we transfer the information you gave us from one organisation to another, or give it to you. The right only applies if we are processing information based on your consent for contractual purposes.

Your right in relation to automated decision making and profiling. Women's Aid Federation of England does not use any of your personal data to make automated decisions, however we do create profiles of our clients/customers. You have the right to stop us doing this and can do so by contacting us in writing at the address given.

You are not required to pay any charge for exercising your rights. We have one month to respond to you.

For more information about your rights, you can visit the ICO website <https://ico.org.uk>
